

7 THINGS CONTRACTORS SHOULD KNOW

ABOUT THE MISSOURI VALLEY LINE CONSTRUCTORS APPRENTICESHIP & TRAINING PROGRAM

Your success depends on having qualified linemen you can trust on the job – who are trained in the latest techniques using the most up-to-date tools and equipment. Linemen who value safety and efficiency. Linemen who are proud of their profession and the quality of work they do. The apprenticeship program at Missouri Valley Line Constructors combines supervised, structured on-the-job training with related classroom instruction to prepare linemen to do their job safely and efficiently. But did you know ...

1. Missouri Valley Line Constructors Apprenticeship & Training Program Meets Your Demand For Skilled Workers?

Working closely with contractors like you, we understand the skill set linemen need for the successful completion of your projects. Our specialized training program addresses those needs to ensure the linemen we train are ready to tackle the projects you have waiting for them.

2. Missouri Valley Line Constructors Apprenticeship & Training Program Provides Practical Training?

In addition to classroom training, apprentices at Missouri Valley Line Constructors learn by doing. Our pole yard and state-of-the-art equipment provide as-close-to-a-real work environment as possible. As a result, our graduates are more productive when they join your team and better equipped to solve problems on the job.

3. Missouri Valley Line Constructors Apprenticeship & Training Program Instructors Demand High Standards?

Our instructors have worked in the electrical trade and know the level of competency you demand of your linemen. They expect nothing less as instructors. Completing the apprenticeship program at Missouri Valley Line Constructors is recognition that these linemen have what it takes to satisfy your exacting needs.

4. Missouri Valley Line Constructors Apprenticeship & Training Program Teaches On-The-Job Safety?

There is nothing more costly to you than on-the-job accidents. That is why safety is an important part of each apprentice's training at Missouri Valley Line Constructors. We not only want our graduates to be able to effectively perform their tasks, but we demand they do it as safely as possible – to save you time and money.

5. Missouri Valley Line Constructors Apprenticeship & Training Program Teaches On-The-Job Safety?

Working closely with contractors and the IBEW, Missouri Valley Line Constructors has the resources needed to customize curriculum for specific projects as well as regional needs. Access to a broad range of instructors and training locations throughout the Midwest allows us to provide training that is tailored to your specific needs.

6. Missouri Valley Line Constructors Apprenticeship & Training Program Has A Proven Track Record?

Working in conjunction with the IBEW and NECA, Missouri Valley Line Constructors has been training apprentices since 1971. Today, this not-for-profit organization is well respected for its ability to ensure you a steady supply of qualified workers.

7. Missouri Valley Line Constructors Apprenticeship & Training Program Provides Opportunities For All?

Graduates of our program include individuals representing the diversity of today's workforce and we welcome them all — high school and college graduates; new Americans and veterans; men and women; and individuals of every nationality, religion and race.

More About The Missouri Valley Constructors Apprenticeship & Training Program:

The apprenticeship program based in Indianola, Iowa, is one of seven locations operated by the organization. The others are in the states of Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin. The Iowa program occupies a training facility, which includes an outdoor pole yard. The Iowa program trains thousands of apprentice linemen each year.
